

SOCIAL SUSTAINABILITY

The combination of the design of the physical environment with a focus on how the people who live in and use a space relate to each other and function as a community. It is enhanced by development that provides the right infrastructure to support a strong social and cultural life, opportunities for people to get involved, scope for the place and community to evolve

- Berkeley Group

SOCIAL SUSTAINABILITY

The idea that future generations should have the same or greater access to social resources as the current generation (intergenerational equity) while there should also be equal access to social resources within the current generation (intragenerational equity)

CREATING A SENSE OF PLACE

- Place
- An infinite region: Area: Spot: Relative position in a sequence or scale - Webster's Dictionary
 - Of human and natural order and the significant centers of our immediate experiences of the world. - Place and Placelessness, E. Relph

CREATING A SENSE OF PLACE

Our own definitions of what “place” is defined as are the product of our own self-conscious and unselfconscious identities to a particular place. Over time, these place identities from individuals combine with one another and form a common identity, thus creating a sense of place through physical occupation over time.

CREATING A SENSE OF PLACE

Symbolism; the use of symbols to represent ideas or qualities.
